Tips on how to stay healthy before Orlando

- The best way to stay healthy is to minimize exposure when your team is not at practice, quarantine as much as possible leading up to the event and wear a mask consistently when that is not possible.
- If anyone in your group does test positive or exhibits symptoms prior to your departure, they should NOT travel to Orlando.
- If your athletes have a virtual school option, talk to your parents to see if it's a possibility for your athletes to attend school virtually for 10 days leading up to travel, to avoid any potential exposure from other students/teachers at school.

- Before your arrival, athletes should monitor themselves for symptoms for COVID-19 listed by the CDC and check their temperatures every day, starting 7 days prior to travel.
- We strongly recommend you get tested for COVID-19 72 hours before arriving in Orlando (recommended, not required).
